

Hotel Mode Features

ATSC Models

All Aquavision televisions have a range of features not accessible via the general “user” menu call “Hotel Mode”
These were originally designed for the Hotel contracts that we receive but are equally as popular with general installers.

These features are as follows

- Maximum Volume – designed to stop you annoying the neighbors
- Initial Volume – Volume the TV comes “ON” at
- Initial Channel – Channel the TV comes “ON” at
- Initial Picture Status Memory (PSM) – PSM setting the TV comes “ON” at
- Initial Sound Status Memory (SSM) – SSM setting the TV comes “ON” at

When you are installing multiple TV's, you may find it easier to “Copy” the settings from the first TV to all subsequent TV's.
This saves tuning each TV in and changing all other settings.

On TV's with built in Satellite tuners, due to the number of channels that are picked up, you may want to reOrder and delete some. This can be a simple process by copying the database from the TV to a PC, editing the list, then importing it back to the TV.

In the “Function” menu, you also have the ability to “grey out” unused inputs. This removes them from the “Source” menu, making source selection much easier.

Aquavision work with all the leading Hotel TV content providers and our products are directly compatible with most.
This includes having built in IPTV connection or at least having compatibility with the providers STB (Set Top Box) via RS232 and IR controls

Our standard waterproof remote control does not give the customer access to the menus so they cant re-program any settings they are not supposed to.

Further details of all these features are available on request.
